D. APPLETON & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

READY ON MONDAY:

The Reds of the Midi

An Episode of the French Revolution.

By FÉLIX GRAS.

Translated from the Provençal by Mrs. CATHARINE A. JANVIER. With an introduction by THOMAS A. JANVIER. With frontispiece.

12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"In all French history there is no more inspiring episode than that with which M. Gras deals in this story: the march to Paris and the doings in Paris of that Marseilles Battalion made of men who were sworn to cast down 'the tyrant,' and who 'knew how to die.' His epitome of the motive power of the Revolution in the feelings of one of its individual pleasant parts is the very essence of simplicity and directness. His method has the largeness and the clearness of the Greek drama. The motives are distinct. The action is free and bold. The climax is inevitable, and the story has a place entirely apart from all the fiction of the French Revolution with which I am acquainted."—From Mr. Janvier's Introduction.

The Dancer in Yellow

By W. E. NORRIS,

Author of "A Victim of Good Luck," "Mademoiselle de Mersac," etc. Town and Country Library.

12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

Mr. Norris is always entertaining, agreeable, and delightful, and he is seen at his best in this excellent novel.

Cleg Kelly, Arab of the City.

His Progress and Adventures.

By S. R. CROCKETT, author of "The Lilac Sunbonnet," "Bog-Myrtle and Peat," etc. With 8 full-page illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

It is safe to predict for the quaint and delightful figure of Cleg Kelly a notable place in the literature of the day. Mr. Crockett's signal success in his new field will enlarge the wide circle of his admirers. The lights and shadows of curious phases of Edinburgh life, and of Scotch farm and railroad life, are pictured with an intimate sympathy, richness of humor, and truthful pathos which make this new novel a genuine addition to literature. It seems safe to say that at least two characters—Cleg and Muckle Alick—are likely to lead Mr. Crockett's heroes in popular favor. The illustrations of this fascinating novel have been the result of most faithful and sympathetic study.

Hypnotism, Mesmerism, and the New Witchcraft.

By ERNEST HART, formerly Surgeon to the West London Hospital, and Ophthalmic Surgeon to St. Mary's Hospital, London. With 20 illustrations. New edition, enlarged and revised. With new chapters on "The Eternal Gullible" and "The Hypnotism of Trilby." 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"Dr. Hart is not an enemy of the spiritual, but he gives ground to neither the supernatural nor the preternatural when he can help it. His state of mind is generally impartial."—Chicago Post.

"Mr. Hart holds it as proved beyond all reasonable doubt that the hypnotic condition is an admitted clinical fact, and declares that the practice of hypnotism, except by skilled physicians, should be forbidden. He affirms its therapeutic uselessness, and condemns the practice because of the possibilities of social mischiefs. . . . His personal experiences in the 'New Witchcraft' enable him to exercise a critical check on the wild theories and unsupported assertions of others."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Flash of Summer.

By Mrs. W. K. CLIFFORD, author of "Love-Letters of a Worldly Woman," "Aunt Anne," etc. No. 189, Town and Country Library. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00.

Mrs. Clifford's rank as one of the most brilliant writers of modern literary London is known to all readers. This novel is regarded as a work of especial strength.

D. APPLETON & CO., Publishers, 72 Fifth Ave., New York.

SIX MODERN WOMEN.

Psychological Sketches. By LAURA MARHOLM HANSSON. Translated from the German by Hermione Ramsden. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

"A most suggestive and thought-stimulating book, that reflects the highest credit on her as a woman and a thinker; a book to be earnestly recommended to the thoughtful study of the 'new woman,' and to earnest people generally."—Saturday Evening Gazette.

"Strong, healthy, and truly womanly. It urges to a higher individuality and inspires toward the most worthy dignity to which modern woman can attain."—N. Y. Times.

"A thoughtful, earnest writer, who has looked further into woman's nature than most of her sex."—Commercial Advertiser.

"A keen, interesting study."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

"Of the most unique interest."—Inter-Ocean.

"Will invite the most earnest attention."—N. Y. Journal.

"Such a novel theme in such competent hands could but present most interesting reading."—Boston Journal.

ARMENIAN POEMS.

By ALICE STONE BLACKWELL. 16mo, cloth, $1.25.

Two considerations have led to the publication of these fugitive translations in book form. The first was the conviction that the sympathy already felt for the Armenians in their martyrdom at the hands of the Turks would be deepened by an acquaintance with the temper and genius of the people, as shown in their poetry. The second was the fact that Armenian poetic literature, while well worthy to be known, was practically inaccessible to English-speaking readers. . . . As the beauty of an Armenian girl is often conspicuous even in rags, so it is hoped that the beauty of some of these Armenian poems may be visible even through the poverty of their English dress.—Preface.

"Live on, Armenians! Some day, over death Armenia yet shall rise in victory; Soon may that glad day dawn for us, O Heaven! Brethren, Armenians let us ever be!"

NOTES IN SEASON.

"THE CHASE OF THE METEOR," a very interesting book for boys, written by Edwin Lasseter Bynner, and first published by Little, Brown & Co., will hereafter be published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., who will shortly bring out a new edition.

MEYER BROS. & Co. will have on exhibition during this month at their new store, 1127 Broadway, New York, a large and very fine collection of European picture posters, including works by Cheret, Grasset, Des Gachons, Ibels, Lautrec, Forain, Bac, Guillaume, Pal, Steinlein, Boutet, Meunier, Willette, Moucha, and others. The collection includes a complete set by M. Cheret.

WARD, LOCK & BOWDEN, LTD., have just ready three new novels—"Kriegspiel: the war game," by Francis Hindes Groome, a novel of gypsy life by one of the greatest living Romany authorities; "The Beautiful White Devil," by Guy Boothby, author of "A Bid for Fortune"; and the long-expected novel by Fergus Hume, entitled "The Crime of the 'Liza Jane.'"

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish at once a volume entitled "What is Electricity?" by Prof. John Trowbridge, of Harvard University, who is said to have been the first in the United States to make a successful photograph by the cathode rays. The work, which covers the entire ground of modern electricity, will give a particularly full description of the principles and methods of photography by the cathode rays.

P. BLAKISTON, SON & Co., Philadelphia, have nearly ready a work on "Appendicitis," a systematic treatise, containing a large number of colored and black and white illustrations, including a series of twenty-four figures in colors explaining each step in the various methods of operating, drawn by a special artist direct from life during and after operations, by John B. Deaver, M.D., Assistant Professor of Surgical Anatomy, University of Pennsylvania, etc.

THE CENTURY COMPANY has in preparation besides Fuller's "The Puppet Booth," already announced, a work on "The White Pine," by Gifford Pinchot and Henry S. Graves. This is, we understand, the first systematic study of any American tree. Mr. Pinchot, who planned the work, was one of the consulting foresters at Biltmore, North Carolina, and the motive that prompted its publication is to assist in making clear the real nature of forestry and to hasten the general introduction of right methods of forest management. An international novel, by Molly Elliot Seawell, "A Strange, Sad Comedy," is also on The Century Co.'s list for early publication, and "Notes of the Night," a group of essays and sketches by Charles C. Abbott, the author of "A Naturalist's Rambles About Home."

MACMILLAN & Co. will publish under the title "An Ambassador of the Vanquished" a translation of the work by the Duc de Broglie on M. de Gontaut-Biron's mission to Berlin. It is translated, with notes, by Albert D. Vandam, the clever author of "An Englishman in Paris," and the list of contents includes The Liberation of the Territory; The Ministry of May 24, 1873; The Episcopal Charges and the Crisis of 1875; The Eastern Question and the Berlin Memorandum; The Elections of 1877; and The Resignation. They will also publish in the course of the present month "Ulster As It Is, or, twenty-eight years' experience as an Irish editor." It is written by Mr. Thomas Wright, author of several historical works, and will form two volumes. They are about to publish "Revenue Laws of Ptolemy Philadelphus," edited from a papyrus in the Bodleian, with a translation, commentary, and appendices by B. P. Grenfell, and an introduction by Prof. Mahaffy. The papyrus consists of two rolls, which were obtained by Prof. Flinders Petrie and Mr. Grenfell respectively.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no prices, either at or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

- Baring-Gould, Sabine. The broom-squire. N. Y., F. A. Stokes Co., [1896.] c. 4+345 p. D. cl., $1.25. [1038]
According to the story, a sailor carrying a small baby is seen to enter the Thurstley Ship, a wayside inn between Goldaming and Portsmouth, where he meets three men, who follow him from the inn and murder and rob him. The baby and dead man are found later by Jonas Kink (the broom-squire), so called because he is one of a settlement of squatters whose chief industry is broom-making. Eventually Mehetabel the founding marries Jonas, and her interesting history thereafter is given, and many local superstitions of the time (1788) are introduced.

For more than two hundred years the two Frenchmen who were the pioneer explorers of Lake Superior have remained nameless. It is now certain they were Pierre-Esprit Radisson and Medard Chouart des Groseilliers. This pamphlet offers details of their lives and explorations, not only of Lake Superior, but of other western regions. A bibliography (1 p.).
- Castlemon, Harry, [pseud. for C: Austin Fosdick.] The house-boat boys. Phil., H: T. Coates & Co., [1896.] c. 4+409 p. il. D. cl., $1.25. [1046]
Two western boys, in order to gain money to pay for a university education, build a house-boat for themselves; they float in it down the Ohio into the Mississippi River, fishing and trapping and selling their game. There is a mystery about the parents of one of the boys, which is gradually revealed; after many serious adventures, he discovers his father in a rich southern planter.

- Groome, Francis Hindes. Kriegspiel: the war-game. N. Y., Ward, Lock & Bowden, Ltd., 1896. 2+380 p. por. D. cl., $1.50. [1061]
 The story opens in England in 1868. Fourteen years previous Sir Charles Glemham had married a young gypsy girl, and deserted her, believing her unfaithful; she dies in giving birth to a boy, who Sir Charles sends to Germany and educates, doubting, however, if he is the boy's father. When the book begins he has brought this boy Lionel back to England, acknowledged him, and settled down on his estates. A series of reprisals here begin with the gypsies; Sir Charles meets with a violent death, Lionel is abducted and cruelly treated, and many other sensational acts are described.
- Gunter, Archibald Clavering. Her senator: a novel. N. Y., The Home Pub. Co., [1896.] c. 261 p. D. (The welcome ser., no. 7.) pap., 50 c. [1062]
 A New York broker entrusted with the fortune of a friend is dishonest and uses it for his own purposes; at a moment when he is expecting to be called to account for his stewardship he learns of the death of his friend, who is lost in the steamship Atlantic coming from Europe. The friend's two little girls fall to his care and he cruelly places them in an orphan asylum. The eldest girl escapes from the asylum, and finally goes upon the stage and becomes a thorough Bohemian. To further the affairs of the Gelatine Trust, she settles in Washington, and looks about for a senator who may be bribed, her victim proving to be the son of the man who had robbed her family.

- Hepworth, G. H. The farmer and the Lord. N. Y., E. P. Dutton & Co., 1896. c. 4+238 p. D. cl., 75 c. [1065]
 A companion volume to "Hiram Golf's religion." Elijah Tomkins, "the farmer," is an infidel; he has inherited his beliefs or unbeliefs from his father and grandfather, and is honest and sincere; he thinks it is impossible for him to change, but his old friend Erasmus Brown thinks otherwise, and finds his hopes realized when sorrow and affliction turn "Lija" towards God. The story is told in many conversations in the Yankee dialect.
- Hugo, Victor. Quatrevingt-treize; with an historical introd. and English notes, by B. Duryea Woodward. N. Y., W. R. Jenkins, 1896. c. 6+601 p. D. cl., $1.25. [1066]
- Hume, Fergus W. The crime of the 'Liza Jane; il. by G. Hutchinson. N. Y., Ward, Lock & Bowden, Ltd., 1896. 3+248 p. D. cl., $1. [1067]
 An ocean tramp going up the Channel to London, in June of 1891, picks up a small pleasure-boat, the 'Liza Jane, in which is the dead body of a man, bound hand and foot to the bottom of the boat; there is a wound in his left breast, over which is tattooed the inscription "Down with tyrants." This is the starting-point of a sensational tale, rich in the most puzzling mysteries, whose characters are anarchists, journalists, an actress, detectives, etc.

- Jarboe, Mrs. J. R., ["T. H. Brainerd," pseud.] Robert Atterbury: a study of love and life. N. Y., Cassell Pub. Co., [1896.] c. 8+284 p. nar. D. (Unknown lib.) cl., 50 c. [1072]
 The author of "Go forth and find" illustrates her views about marriage in a story which shifts its scene from California to Japan and thence to a home near Boston. There are three couples in the story, but the chief characters are a young girl, whose mother is hopelessly insane, and a man, "Robert Atterbury," who inherits consumption. They love each other, but do not think it right to marry; they form a plan of living by which they can be together, of which the book tells.

Lummis, C. F. The gold fish of Gran Chimú; il. by H. Sandham. Bost., Lamson, Wolfe & Co., 1896. c. '95. 3+126 p. il. S. cl., $1.50. [1074]

A great treasure in gold is supposed to be buried in the Gran Chimú of Peru, which goes by the name of the pez grande, or the great fish. Indians and Peruvians are constantly digging for it. The treasure, consisting of eleven mummies of solid gold, is found by Gonzalo, the son of Don Bertram, a fine old Spanish gentleman; it is found just in time, as Don Bertram would have been ruined if he had not at once payed up a debt on his home.

M., N., comp. Precious nonsense. N. Y., Baker & Taylor Co., [1896.] c. '95. unpub. obl. T. pap., 25 c. [1075]

A collection of rhymes in imitation of Lear's "Book of nonsense."

McVickar, H. Whitney. The evolution of woman. N. Y., Harper, 1896. c. unp. il. sq. O. cl., $2. [1076]

A series of satirical pictures, done in colors, illustrating the evolution of woman, from the temptation in the garden of Eden, down through the times of the Pharaohs, Ancient Rome and Greece, and the fourteenth and fifteenth and more recent centuries, as she takes on the dress and habits of man, until in 1900 she is discovered as master of the field.

Peterman, Alex. L. Elements of civil government: a text-book for use in public schools, high schools, and normal schools; and a manual of reference for teachers. [New York ed.] N. Y., American Book Co., [1896.] c. '91. 2-268 p. D. cl., 60 c. [1091] point is the family, the first form of government, with which the child comes in contact. As his acquaintance with rightful authority increases, the school, the civil district, the township, the county, the state, and the United States are taken up in their order. The subject is presented in a simple and attractive way. It will be readily understood by pupils reading in the Fourth reader. This edition contains a supplement especially relating to the laws of New York state.

The memoir of Henriette Renan, which opens the volume, was written by her brother for private circulation about a year after her death, in September, 1882, with the title "Henriette Renan, a memorial for those who knew her." Henriette was the strongest influence in Ernest Renan's life; this is shown in the correspondence between them which follows the memoir, covering the years 1842-1845; Ernest was then in Paris, studying for a clerical life, and Henriette was filling a position as governess in Poland. It was at this time a decisive moment came in his career. The letters are beautiful evidences of an entire love and confidence.

While fishing at Stavering, in Derbyshire, Warren Strickland, a young English soldier, clandestinely marries Isabel, the half-sister of the Misses Pengarvon of Broome; deeply incensed at this act of Isabel's, the two spinsters disown her. A year later Isabel returns, and after giving birth to a child dies; her sisters bury her secretly and give the child away. This child's career and the mystery of its mother's life make a sensational story.

Stannard, Mrs. Henrietta Eliza Vaughan, ["John Strange Winter," pseud.] I married a wife: a novel. N. Y., F. A. Stokes

Co., [1896.] '95. 5+200 p. il. nar. S. (Twentieth century ser.) buckram, 75 c. [1112]

The hero is an officer of the Black Horse, an English crack cavalry regiment. He marries a lovely girl, whose interest and work have for years been centred in the poor of London; she has a strong-minded sister, who is working for the advancement of women; their mother is a witty woman of the world, with great common sense. Derrick Lipscombe's connection with the family has some funny episodes, his wife's continued zeal for the poor causing her to seriously neglect her husband's interest.

Sudermann, Hermann. Magda: a play in four acts; from the German by C. E. Amory Winslow. Bost., Lamson, Wolfe & Co., 1896. c. '95. 161 p. S. (Sock and buskin lib.) cl., $1. [1114]

Called in the original Heimat; considered Sudermann's masterpiece. Magda is an interesting psychological study; the scene is laid in a provincial German town, in the home of a retired, half-pay officer—a man of integrity, but narrow of vision and exercising his parental authority with an iron hand. Magda has fled from this home in her youth; she returns to it a rich, successful prima donna. The modern conflict between the old and the new is painfully illustrated.

Wolf, Alice S. A house of cards. Chic., Stone & Kimball, 1896. c. 5-281 p. S. (Peacock lib.) cl., $1.25. [1128]

A marriage entered into without love and through a deception is the "house of cards" that the first strong wind blows to the ground. A rich man of San Francisco is passionately in love with a poor school-teacher; she does not return his love, and refuses him several times before she promises to be his wife; her excuses for finally marrying him are overworked eyes, which demand leisure and rest, and the desire to see Europe. The catastrophe occurs when she discovers insanity is hereditary in her husband's family, and the man she might have loved comes into her life.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

APRIL 4, 1896.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE VALUE OF RARE BOOKS.

THE collecting of books has become a profession in which those who would rank as experts must be content to work harder every year. In the closing days of the nineteenth century fortunes are made and lost so unaccountably, people wander about the world so unceasingly, that books pass from the possession of one book-collector into the keeping of another at almost every moment; and to keep clearly in mind just where the rare books are requires trained memory and a close study of booksellers' catalogues and auction-sales lists.

Collectors are, as a rule, unbusiness-like, and generally leave their affairs in such a state that their relatives in too many cases are obliged to realize money on the only thing of value they possess. It is therefore of great importance that rival collectors should know each other's riches.

No one has done more to facilitate the researches of collectors than M. Pierre Gustav Brunet, whose death we recorded in the issue of March 7. Almost his last work was an essay entitled "Du Prix des Livres Rares Vers la Fin du XIXe Siècle," which he prepared in 1893 for the Actes de l'Académie Nationale des Sciences, Belles-Lettres et Arts de Bordeaux, which now is published in pamphlet form by Feret & Fils, Bordeaux. In this able and instructive treatise M. Brunet sketches the portrait of a bibliophile of the highest rank as follows: "He must be master of an independent fortune; he must be a celibate and master of all his passions but the dominating one; he must be armed with imperturbable coolness and with profound literary learning. The exterior of a book must appeal to him as much as the contents; he must recognize the peculiarities and specialties of the work of every celebrated binder, so that he may distinguish at a glance a binding of Derome from one of Derome le Jeune. A complete stranger to political life, he hardly notices the hero of the hour, and he treats with scornful indifference the hero of a change of ministry. Towards the close of his life he begins to concern himself in the fate of his beloved books, and in the reception which will be given to the catalogue in which will be registered all the riches which he has accumulated."

M. Brunet claims that the value of rare books has increased enormously during the last century, and traces the reason to the fact that opulent amateurs have multiplied, and that the number of books of incontestible rarity is about the same as it was a century and a half ago, when De Bure, Jr., registered them in his "Bibliographie Instructive." They are all well known, and those which have not found inviolable shelter in public museums and libraries are coveted and fought for at every public sale.

There is a fashion, too, in rare books as there is in women's clothes and in bric-à-brac. The taste of amateurs undergoes many transformations; sometimes it leads toward pilgrimages, toward the Holy Land, toward books printed in Germany or Switzerland, especially those containing the writings of Luther and Calvin, etc. More recently original editions of the French romanticists of 1830 have risen to very high values, a copy of Théophile Gautier's "Mademoiselle de Maupin" bringing 1600 francs. But these are individual fancies which are not lasting, and M. Brunet believes that true bibliographers will continue to search for volumes of which there are only a few copies in existence, as for instance of the first editions of the tales of the knights, of the best French poets of the sixteenth century, and first editions of the classics of the eighteenth century. Of all the French classics Molière seems to bring the highest prices in original editions. M. Brunet mentions many works in detail, giving the history of their wanderings from country to country, over sea and land, and specially dwells upon some of the treasures catalogued by Bernard Quaritch.

North American collectors are said to be specially keen at hunting "big game" and often offer fabulous sums for what they have set their hearts upon. As binding by celebrities is a special feature of many rare books, M. Brunet also gives brief sketches of some of the binders. "Du Prix des Livres Rares" is full of information put with rare felicity of diction, which is not impaired by the little ripple of fun and good-natured satire which runs through many of M. Brunet's comments.

HERBERT SPENCER'S WORK.

It was reported recently that Herbert Spencer had informed some of his friends that he had completed the last of the volumes of his system of synthetic philosophy. The New York Sun, however, learns from authoritative sources that "this was an error, and that Mr. Spencer has almost finished the last part of the last volume of his work, but has not concluded it. Great interest attaches to this labor of Mr. Spencer's, as it has been a grave question whether he would live to complete it. But he is to-day, at the age of 76, able to do, it is said, the same daily quota of work—three hours—that he established for himself when he was approaching middle life. He laid the plan of this system of philosophic works in 1860, and it was feared then that he would not live to fulfil it. He had been of delicate health as a child, and at the age of 35 had broken down from overwork. Ever since then he has suffered from insomnia, and it is said that he has probably not had a full night's sleep in forty years.

"His plan of 1860 for formulating his philosophic system comprehended a work in five divisions, some of one volume and some of two: first principles, biology, psychology, sociology, and ethics. The undertaking seemed to be a stupendous one. The first volume of first principles, consisting entirely of abstractions, he published in 1860. That was followed by the volumes on biology and psychology, and then, not knowing how much further he would be able to carry the greater work, he published a pamphlet on the principles of sociology. Fearing, as he said, that life would not last for the completion of his labors, and desiring to have what he regarded as the most important part at least done, he published later a small work on the data of ethics. He went back to work on sociology again and left that to complete the ethics, which he finished, and turned once more to the sociological division which he is now bringing to its close with the part devoted to industrial institutions. America has a peculiar interest in the work, since it was the United States that taught England to appreciate Spencer, and it was very largely through the instrumentality of Americans—Prof. E. L. Youmans, Dr. McCosh, Henry Ward Beecher, John Fisk, and Henry Holt among them—that Spencer was enabled to undertake and to go on with the work he planned in 1860."

PROTEST AGAINST POSTAL CHANGES.

As noted in our last week's issue a meeting of publishers of periodical magazines and books, and of other persons interested in the preparation and distribution of these classes of publications, was held March 27 in the Hardware Club's rooms, in the Postal Telegraph Building, New York. Their object was to protest against the action of the postal authorities in curtailing the number and kind of publications which may be sent through the mails at second-class rates of one cent a pound.

The chair was taken by Patrick Farrelly, of the American News Company, and Orville J. Victor, of Adams, Victor & Co., acted as secretary. Among those present were Robert E. Bonner, J. S. Ogilvie, George P. Rowell, P. F. Collier, George P. Castle of the Medical Record, published by William Wood & Co., W. H. Heines of Street & Smith, David Adams, W. H. Adams, R. F. Fenno, S. Zickel, T. Alfred Vernon, and John Elderkin.

The object of the meeting was explained by John Elderkin. Some time ago, Mr. Elderkin said, Judge Thomas, the Second Assistant Postmaster-General, made a ruling by which reprints of back numbers of periodicals were not to pass through the mails as second-class matter, but must pay book rates. This was, in Mr. Elderkin's opinion, the broadest step ever taken against newspapers and periodicals by executive authority. It allowed the Postmaster-General to throw out of mails any periodical which he might think had changed its form, or the time or periodicity of its issue.

No daily paper, Mr. Elderkin continued, could mail a copy of its issue of any particular date, if it was reprinted next day as a second edition, at second-class rates. Kerr Craig, Mr. Elderkin said, had said, in a speech in New York, that it was the intention of the postal authorities to make some concessions to newspapers and magazines. In a conversation which Mr. Elderkin had had with Mr. Craig, the latter had said that it was to the periodicals which the postal authorities did not consider as properly coming within the terms of second-class rates that the new rules were to be applied with rigor.

Mr. Elderkin said that in his visit to Washington, some weeks ago, he had proved to Postmaster-General Wilson and to others that the committee of Congress which had drawn up the present law in 1879 had expressly made it cover periodical literature, such as the libraries, and had refused to accept an amendment which would bar these out. In consequence of these representations by Mr. Elderkin, the Postmaster-General had consented to a suspension of the new interpretation of the law for sixty days.

In conclusion, Mr. Elderkin moved a resolution of protest against the exclusion from the second-class rate of all reprinted newspapers and periodicals.

Mr. Farrelly, the chairman, suggested that a Washington lawyer should be employed to present the case of the New York publishers to Judge Thomas. This was put in the form of a resolution and was carried.

It was agreed that Orville J. Victor, T. Alfred Vernon, and John Elderkin should go to Washington and prepare the case of the New York publishers for submission through a lawyer to the postal authorities.

NEWSPAPER STATISTICS.

ACCORDING to the London Book and News Trade Gazette "a statistician has learned that the annual aggregate circulation of the papers of the world is calculated to be 12,000,000,000 copies. To grasp any idea of this magnitude, we may state that it would cover no fewer than 10,450 square miles of surface; that it is printed on 781,250 tons of paper; and, further, that if the number, 12,000,000,000, represented, instead of copies, seconds, it would take over 333 years for them to elapse. In lieu of this arrangement, we might press and pile them vertically upward to gradually reaching our highest mountains; topping all these and even the highest Alps, the pile would reach the magnificent altitude of 490, or, in round numbers, 500 miles. Calculating that the average man spends five minutes reading his paper in the day (this is a very low estimate), we find that the people of the world altogether annually occupy time equivalent to 100,000 years reading the papers."

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

INVESTIGATION OF THE COPYRIGHT BILLS.

A DELEGATION of music publishers, including Hamilton S. Gordon, of New York, F. H. Gilson, Walter M. Bacon, George W. Furniss, W. B. Everett, Arthur G. Grinnell, and D. L. White, all of Boston, also Charles B. Bayley, of Washington, had a hearing March 19 before the House Committee on Patents appealing for protection of their business by an extension of the copyright laws.

ON March 25 ex-Judge Dittenhoefer, of New York, representing Bronson Howard, Sidney Rosenfeld, Hoyt, Daly, Frohman, and many other playwrights, appeared before the Senate Committee on Patents to advocate Senator Hill's bill to amend the copyright law so as to make the piracy of any dramatic or musical composition a misdemeanor, punishable, if the presentation is wilful and for profit, by imprisonment for a period not exceeding one year. The pirate is also made liable to damages in a sum not less than $100 for the first and $50 for every subsequent offence. Another provision of the bill extends the jurisdiction of circuit courts as in the tariff law, so as to make the writs of one court operative in any other circuit. Only four members of the committee were present—Messrs. Platt, Clark, Wetmore, and Berry. From the outset it was apparent from the questions asked that Mr. Berry was opposed to the bill. Judge Dittenhoefer said that the playwrights had carefully considered this proposed measure and believed it was the only thing that would stop the piracy of successful plays, a species of intellectual brigandage which had been carried on in this country recently to an alarming extent. He cited instances to show the utter inability to secure convictions under the present law. Playwrights and managers had endeavored in vain to secure justice. They had been compelled to abandon their efforts for the reason that it was money uselessly expended. The present copyright law simply provides a money penalty, which has no terrors for those who are affected by this amendment. If there were a provision making the presentation of piratical plays a misdemeanor, punishable with imprisonment at the discretion of the court, Judge Dittenhoefer held that there would be no occasion to enforce it, for the reason that the fear of imprisonment would at once prevent the continuation of such performances.

THE investigation of copyright laws which has been carried on for several weeks by the House Committee on Patents, according to an Associated Press despatch, will probably lead to a more or less comprehensive revision of the copyright system. One of the principal changes likely to result will be the establishment of a bureau of copyrights in connection with the Congressional Library, which now has charge of all the copyright business, but which has not a sufficiently large clerical force properly to handle this work.

Mr. Spofford, the librarian of Congress, has been asked to report to the committee the amendments to the present law which he considers desirable, and when the committee has discussed his recommendations there will be drawn a substitute bill embodying such improvements as meet the approval of the members.

After this has been done, Gen. Draper, of Massachusetts, the chairman of the committee, intends to submit the bill to all the copyright leagues and other organizations which have a legitimate interest in the subject, and elicit their opinions. More hearings before the committee may be made necessary, and the programme outlined will probably take most of the remainder of this session, so that there is little probability that any new law will be enacted before the next session.

NORWAY TO JOIN THE BERNE CONVENTION.

THE Norwegian Society of Authors has unanimously passed a resolution asking the Government to hasten the agreement with the Berne Convention without waiting for the assent of Denmark. This conclusion was urged with great force by Henrik Ibsen.

COPYRIGHT ENTRIES FOR 1895.

OUR attention has been called to the fact that the statement alleged to have been made by Mr. Spofford to the Committee on Patents, March 18, that "last year the number of copyright entries exceeded 763,000," is incorrect. The figures were evidently mixed up in the original despatch, as the number is upwards of 67,300, or, to be quite exact, 67,517.

OBITUARY NOTES.

EDWARD KING, the well-known war correspondent and author, died suddenly in Brooklyn, N. Y., on March 27. He was born in Middlefield, Mass., July 31, 1848. Before he was twenty he became city editor of The Springfield Republican. For many years he lived in Paris, and while there he made a specialty of the physical characteristics and present condition of the Southern States and French subjects. During the Franco-Prussian War he was the correspondent of the New York Evening Post, The Boston Journal, and The Springfield Republican. He was also in the Balkans with the Russians in the war against Turkey. Among his principal works are: "My Paris, or, French character sketches," "Kentucky's Love," "The Great South," "Echoes from the Orient," "French Political Leaders," "The Gentle Savage," "Europe, in Storm and Calm," and "A Venetian Lover." Eight years ago Mr. King made his home in Brooklyn.

MRS. ELIZABETH CHARLES, the author of the "Chronicles of the Schönberg-Cotta Family," etc., died in Hampstead, Eng., March 29. Mrs. Charles was born in Tavistock, Devonshire, either in 1826 or 1828—the exact date is in dispute. Her father, John Rundell, was a banker and a man of rare culture, and was for some years M. P. for Tavistock. Before her marriage in 1851 to Andrew Paton Charles (who died in 1868) Miss Rundell had acquired considerable reputation as a linguist, painter, musician, and poet. Though she wrote upwards of thirty books she is probably best known by her "Chronicles of the Schönberg-Cotta Family," which were published anonymously in London in 1864. Her books never bore her name, but were issued as "by the author of 'The Schönberg-Cotta Family.'"

AARON WISE, rabbi of the Temple Rudolph Sholom, of New York, died suddenly at his home, No. 119 East 65th Street. Dr. Wise was born in Hungary, May 2, 1845. He pursued his rabbinical studies at various seminaries, and studied philosophy in Leipzig and Berlin. In 1873 he came to this country. He preached first in Brooklyn; then he was elected rabbi of the Clinton Street congregation of New York, which afterwards moved uptown. With Dr. Bernard Fisher, of Leipzig, he revised Buxtorf's "Lexicon Chaldaicum et Syriacum." He was the author of "Palm Leaves" and "Women in the Bible," and compiled a religious school-book, "Beth Ahron," and a set of three prayer-books. He also edited The Jewish Herald and The Boston Observer. He was the sixth rabbi in his family, which has been represented in the ministry for over 200 years.

WE should have noted before the death of S. R. Urbino, which took place in February at his home in Newton, Mass. Mr. Urbino thirty or forty years ago was a well-known publisher and bookseller in Boston. He started in business by the purchase of Miss Elizabeth P. Peabody's circulating library and book-store on West Street. He developed the library and also added German, French, and books in other foreign languages to his stock. He then removed to 140 Winter Street, where he began publishing the well-known series of Ahn's and Ollendorf's readers and grammars, and other text-books, which he sold to Henry Holt & Co. shortly before retiring from business in 1865. He sold his business to De Vries, Ibarra & Co., to whom he also transferred the services of Mr. Carl Schoenhof and Miss Fanny Moeller. After the death of De Vries in 1869, Mr. Schoenhof and Miss Moeller bought the business, and continued it under the firm-name of Schoenhof & Moeller. In 1878 the firm-name became Carl Schoenhof, who in 1893 sold out his interest to two of his employees, who continue the business under the firm-name of Castor & Co.

W. H. DENNETT, an old-time Boston publisher and bookseller, died in Beverly, Mass., March 24. He was born in 1820, and at an early age entered the employ of Hilliard Gray & Co., then booksellers of considerable importance. In the early fifties he became junior member of the firm of James Munroe & Co., who published some of Ralph Waldo Emerson's earlier essays and his "Representative Men." There seems to have been little demand for their publications, and after a short time the concern wound up its affairs. Mr. Dennett for a while published some of the old firm's books under his own name until the war broke out. He was among the first to enlist, and served throughout the war. On his return he was engaged for a time with Lee & Shepard. He retired from active business nearly twenty years ago, but never quite severed his connection with the book trade, of which he had an intimate knowledge. He was invariably called upon to officiate as secretary at meetings of the book trade. He leaves a widow and one son.

WE regret to note the death, on March 29, of Charles Lowe Damrell, senior member of the firm of Damrell, Upham & Co., of the "Old Corner Book-Store," Boston. Mr. Damrell was born in Portsmouth, N. H., November 16, 1826. At the death of his father in 1839 he started to work in a West India goods store in his native city. In 1849 he went to Boston, where he began work as a clerk for James Munroe & Co., booksellers and publishers, the junior member of which was W. H. Dennett, whose death is noted above. Mr. Damrell remained with Mr. Munroe, whose store was at that time almost opposite the "Old Corner," until his death, when he took a position with A. Williams, then at 100 Washington Street—the store of "round numbers," as it was known for many years. In 1869 A. Williams & Co. succeeded E. P. Dutton & Co. at the "Old Corner," and Mr. Damrell, with William Crosby, under the firm-name of Crosby & Damrell, remained at Mr. Williams's store carrying on a part of the old business. The new firm lasted about a year, when it was dissolved, and Mr. Damrell joined his old employer at the "Old Corner."

When in 1883 Mr. Williams withdrew from the business, Mr. Damrell, with characteristic modesty, sank his individuality in the "Co." of Cupples, Upham & Co. He became to the firm what Mr. W. D. Ticknor had been to the firm of Ticknor & Fields. When Mr. Cupples retired in 1887, he became senior of the firm of Damrell & Upham, his associate being Henry M. Upham, who has been chiefly identified with the church-book business of the firm. Mr. Damrell was an exceedingly modest and retiring man, shunning publicity of every kind. He was never married. His funeral was from the Roxbury Unitarian Church. His remains were interred in the family burial-grounds in Portsmouth.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Philistine has absorbed The Fly-Leaf, and with it the services of Walter Blackburne Harte.

THE Revue des Deux Mondes will this year send Paul Bourget to Japan, Pierre Loti to Persia and India, and J. Chailly-Bert to the Dutch Indies, for new "impressions de voyage."

THE April number of the American Historical Review, published by Macmillan & Co., is of peculiar interest, comprising, as it does, among its leading articles, "The Battle of Bunker Hill," by Charles Francis Adams; "The Bohun Wills," a group of wills illustrating the life of a great family of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, translated and annotated by Melville M. Bigelow; "Recent Memoirs of the French Directory," by Prof. H. Morse Stephens; "Virginia and the Quebec Bill," by Justin Winsor; "The Case of Josiah Phillips," by Prof. William P. Trent; "Light on the Underground Railroad," by Prof. Wilbur H. Siebert, and "The First Six Weeks of McClellan's Peninsular Campaign," by James Ford Rhodes.

BUSINESS NOTES.

NEW YORK CITY. — The Church Union Company has been incorporated to print publications of all kinds. Capital, $2500. Directors: Samuel T. Carter, of Huntington, N. Y.; R. E. Carter, of Washington, and E. H. Fellows and D. T. Carter, of New York.

NEW YORK CITY. — In order to give New York trade a convenient opportunity to inspect some of their most popular lines the J. B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia, have established a temporary sample-room in this city, in charge of M. D. Ancker. It is located at 297 Broadway, and those who visit it will meet with a number of pleasant surprises in the way of novelties.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

PUTTKAMMER & MÜHLBRECHT, of Berlin, have published their annual "Uebersicht der gesammten staats- und rechtswissenschaftlichen Litteratur" for 1895, compiled by Otto Mühlbrecht. This comprises the six double numbers of the "Allgemeine Bibliographie der Staats- und Rechtswissenschaften," to which are added an author and subject index and a table of statistics of legal and politico-economical literature published during the past 28 years in Germany, France, England and the United States, Italy, the Netherlands, Denmark, Sweden and Norway, and in Spain. From the latter it appears that during the period specified the total number of volumes issued was 99,679. Of these 48,746 were printed in the German language in Germany, Austria, and Switzerland; 18,764 in French, in France and Belgium; 13,836 in English, in England and the United States; 8055 in Italian; 4904 in the Netherlands; 3676 in Scandinavian; and 1698 in Spanish, exclusive of the years 1869, 1873, and 1874, for which no statistics were available. During the past year 4139 volumes were issued as follows: 2184 in German; 498 in French; 874 in English; 303 in Italian; 116 in Dutch; 98 in Scandinavian, and 66 in Spanish. The compiler's work has been carefully and conscientiously done, the information being as complete as possible, giving full titles, number of pages, size, and place of publication, including name of publisher. (32 + 266 p. 12°, pap., 6 marks.)

CATALOGUES OF NEW AND SECOND-HAND BOOKS. — Albert Britnell, 254 Yonge St., Toronto, Miscellaneous, containing a number of items of rare Americana. (No. 7, 906 titles); also, Remainder list of New Books, chiefly Canadian. (February, 48 titles.) — H. W. Bryant, Box 407, Portland, Me., Local history and genealogy, with many items of interest to collectors of Maine books. (No. 1, 331 titles.) — S. H. Chadbourne, 57 Warren St., Roxbury, Mass., Miscellaneous. (No. 17, 366 titles.) — Walter T. Spencer, 27 New Oxford St., London, W. C., Miscellaneous, including rare Cruikshankana, and other items. (No. 71, 1098 titles.) — M. Spingatis, 23 Marienstr., Leipzig, Afrika-entdeckungen und Colonisation, Afrikanische Sprachen. (No. 39, 329 titles); also, Aegyptologie, Assyriologie, Geschichte Syriens und Palästinas. (No. 40, 1072 titles.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE Kelmscott Press has just ready for issue, in an edition of 300 copies, "Poems Chosen from the Works of Samuel Taylor Coleridge."

IN connection with the publication of Mrs. Hodgson Burnett's new novel, "A Lady of Quality," in England, a dramatic version in five acts was produced for copyright purposes, at Ladbroke Hall, London.

THE AMERICAN BOOK CO. has followed up its vertical edition of their shorter course of "Spencerian Penmanship" with a similar treatment of its common school course. The set comprises six books, for which the list price is 96 cents.

THE FUNK & WAGNALLS CO. will publish shortly "Talks to the King's Daughters," by Rev. Sylvanus Stall, associate editor of the Lutheran Observer. This will be a companion volume to the author's popular "Five-Minute Object Sermons to Children."

GEORGE BELL & SONS will publish at once a new edition, in Bohn's Library, of Harriet Martineau's condensation of Comte's "Positive Philosophy." Frederic Harrison has written an introduction, and has added a condensed translation of the concluding portion of Comte's work, which was omitted by Miss Martineau. Macmillan & Co. are the American agents.

PETER ECKLER, New York City, announces that his Library of Liberal Classics will now appear in handsome paper editions, with illustrated covers. About fifty volumes are now ready, including many of the epoch-making books published in English, French, and German. Among the well-known authors on their list who have helped to liberate and educate are Gibbon, Volney, Dickens, Paine, Saltus, Ingersoll, Voltaire, Rousseau, Comte, La Rochefoucauld, Büchner, Hæckel, and Meslier.

BANGS & Co. will sell on the 13th and 14th inst. the library of "Old John Cronin," the eccentric bookseller of Brooklyn, N. Y., who died a short time ago. The collection includes besides a number of early printed Bibles a fine copy of Macklin & Bensley's edition of the Bible in six folio volumes, with a large number of fine engravings on copper after Stothard and other great English artists; some scarce Shakespeariana, including a fine set of the Boydell edition of 1803; a fine copy of the Baldwin & Cradock edition of Hogarth, and a number of other equally interesting items.

OWEN W. BREWER, for upwards of fifteen years the representative on the road for Charles Scribner's Sons, has resigned his position to become a partner of the Western Book and Stationery Co. of Chicago. Mr. Brewer entered the book business in this country in the employ of Thos. Y. Crowell & Co., with whom he remained until Mr. Vandergriff left the Scribners to start a cattle ranch in the West. Mr. Brewer was at that time, we believe, one of the youngest travellers for a book house in this country, as he became also one of the most popular and successful "drummers," and his calls will no doubt be missed by a number of his bookseller friends.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Houses that are willing to deal only on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

TOM GROGAN.

— BY —

F. HOPKINSON SMITH,

Author of "Colonel Carter of Cartersville," "A Day at Laguerre's and Other Days," "A Gentleman Vagabond and Some Others," etc.

Finely illustrated with 19 designs by C. S. REINHART. Carefully printed on imported paper, and bound in a style at once striking and artistic.

Crown Octavo, Price, $1.50.

"Tom Grogan" is a novel of remarkable power, abounding in dramatic incidents and rich in delightful humor. Mr. Smith has written several other very charming books, besides his irresistible novel, "Colonel Carter of Cartersville." But "Tom Grogan" far surpasses this; it strikes a much deeper note; it deals with more dramatic situations, most of which are peculiar to our own day; and the characters are portrayed with a firmer hand. Tom Grogan, a woman contractor, is one of the strongest and most striking figures in modern fiction—strong and masterful as few men are, and yet a noble woman and devoted mother. The labor question is a leading motive, yet it is not discussed by the author, but is presented with graphic force in the dramatic development of the story. In short, "Tom Grogan" is a novel of singular vigor, wonderfully interesting, and it promises to be exceedingly popular.

LITTLE RIVERS.

Essays in Profitable Idleness. By HENRY VAN DYKE.

THE WALTON EDITION, limited to 150 copies, printed by De Vinne on hand-made paper, with a photogravure portrait, and with illustrations printed on Japan paper, including extra plates not contained in the regular edition, also with a new preface; each copy signed by the author. 8vo, $10.00 net.

"What makes this book so dear to its reader? What makes it awaken the best we contain? Its naturalness; its truthfulness; its union of soul and body with nature and her freely offered gifts."—New York Times.

YOUR MONEY OR YOUR LIFE.

By EDITH CARPENTER. One of the N. Y. Herald Prize Stories. 12mo, $1.25.

An exceedingly original and entertaining novelette dealing with life in an Eastern city and sharply relieved contrasts in the West. The characters are vivid and striking, notably one figure, who unites a Harvard education with a career as a chivalrous train robber; and the scenes are stirring and full of romantic color.

SHAKSPERE AND HIS PREDECESSORS.

By Prof. F. L. BOAS, Oxford. (The University Series.) 12mo, $1.50 net.

This is the first work to treat Shakspeare's writings in their approximate chronological order. The relation of the writings to their sources, their technique and general import, and their points of contact with the literature of their own and earlier times engage the author's attention. The rise of the English Drama is clearly sketched, while Shakspeare's kinship to his predecessors is given much greater prominence than is usual.

INDUCTIVE LOGIC.

By JOHN GRIER HIBBEN, Assistant Professor of Logic in Princeton University. 12mo, $1.50.

Dr. Hibben has emphasized the necessity of a thorough knowledge of the principles of inductive logic in order to comprehend the material as well as the formal elements of inference. He insists that the inductive and deductive are mutually dependent and simply different phases of the same logical procedure, and it is to provide the means of pursuing their study co-ordinately that the present treatise has been written.

TWO NOVELS BY BARRETT WENDELL.

Messrs. Charles Scribner's Sons, having acquired by purchase from Messrs. Houghton, Mifflin & Co. the rights of publication of Mr. Wendell's two novels, now issue them in new editions; in cloth, 12mo, uniform with the author's other books, each $1.00; and in the yellow paper covered series, each 50 cents.

Rankell's Remains. An American Novel.

"An immensely clever piece of fiction. His style is exquisitely chaste and fluent."—Boston Advertiser.

The Duchess Emilia. A Romance.

"An original and powerful story; its materials the rich and august elements of Roman life."—Literary World.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS,

153-157 FIFTH AVENUE,

NEW YORK.
